I DID NOT SIGN UP FOR THIS!

JOIN US FOR 4 ONLINE SESSIONS centered on

EMBODIMENT & IDENTITY
SPACE & SOCIAL RELATIONSHIPS

These sessions will frame practical foundations for a collective methodology of care in these times of isolation through grounded exercises of online connectivity, support and community building. What happens when we pay attention to moments in which the question of “how to care” arises. In these sessions, we will use care as a provocation, and an analytical tool rather than a predetermined set of practices.

MEETING

About the Hosts Roberto Perez Gayo & Gabriel A. Maher

As a collaborative duo of designers, with an interdisciplinary background in architecture social design, interaction design, and diversity work, their practice centers on critical, analytical and participatory approaches to design and research. Their work considers the effects of design and designing on bodies and the shaping of identity.

Operating from queer and intersectional frameworks, they investigate relationships between bodies and spaces and examine the technologies and infrastructures that participate in their construction. Their collaborative work has focused in recent years on public space and architectural hybrids where computational technologies, media, and architecture meet.

Student Council Gerrit Rietveld Academie & Sandberg Instituut

Within the Student Council, we have talked a lot about mental health, social isolation, and student wellbeing. We feel it's important for the Student Council to do something about and address these topics. With the current COVID-19 situation this seems more relevant than ever. This workshop is brought to you by the care group of the student council.

We are coordinating our efforts together with unsettling. You can find information about the care groups and unsettling's programming here.
